FAQs

// Church Magazines Internships

1. Who can apply?

Internships are available only to full-time students and to those who have finished a degree within one year of the beginning of their internship. Undergraduate and graduate students may apply.

The magazines are published in up to 48 languages but produced first in English, so while foreign language skills may be helpful, they are not required. International experience is helpful.

Applicants must be members of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints and currently temple worthy.

2. What are the dates?

Students should apply in September for winter (January–April) internships, in February for summer (May–August) internships, and in May for fall (September–December) internships.

3. What is the application process?

Step 1: Apply Online

- ☐ Go to ChurchofJesusChrist.org and log in to your account.

Click on “Employment” at the bottom of the home page. Then click “Search and Apply” under “Employment Opportunities.”

Go to “Posting ID” and enter the job ID for the position you’re applying for. Follow the prompts to fill out the application.

- ☐ Remember to upload your resume and cover letter.
- ☐ If you’re applying for the Liahona editing, YA Weekly, or News and Digital Content internships, you will also need to complete a spelling/sentence test that will be emailed to you once you complete your online application.

For the summer 2023 internships, the deadline for the online application is Wednesday, March 1st.

Step 2: Submit a Portfolio

- ☐ If you are selected to move ahead in the hiring process, we will reach out to you to submit a digital portfolio (for all internships except General Publications).

Step 3: Interview

- ☐ Selected applicants will be invited to interview, either in-person or via video chat, with the hiring team.

If you aren't selected for an internship, we encourage you to apply again! Our selection considerations can include candidates' availability, how many applicants we have, and other factors.

4. What do I need to know about the portfolios?

All portfolios should be online only (no email attachments). If we reach out to you to request your digital portfolio, you will email us a link to the website where your materials can be reviewed online.

EDITORIAL PORTFOLIOS. Applicants who are invited to submit an editorial portfolio should include editing and writing samples for each publication that requests them. Samples should highlight your ability to write for specific audiences. You might also consider writing a new article on a gospel topic—something that could feasibly be published in the Church magazines.

Portfolios could include links to blogs, links to work published online, or digital copies of work published offline. Also, please include a 100-word teaser that invites individuals to follow a link to explore an article further. Please include your resume and cover letter in your digital portfolio as well.

For the youth digital writing/editing position, applicants should visit ChurchofJesusChrist.org, review three or four long articles or curriculum segments, and rewrite them for a youth or children's audience.

In your editing samples, please make sure your editing is visible with change-tracking software. Portfolio reviewers need to be able to see what changes you made.

DESIGN PORTFOLIOS. Applicants who are invited to submit a design portfolio should include samples that exhibit excellence in editorial design and communication. You should be able to demonstrate your role in page layout, graphic design, illustration and photo selection, and implementation of editorial philosophy.

For the youth digital design position, please include any additional experience with digital media, animation, and video content creation.

NEWS AND DIGITAL CONTENT PORTFOLIOS. If you are asked to submit a news and digital content portfolio, please include three news writing samples, two sample Liahona articles, sample Facebook and Twitter posts promoting three recent articles from Newsroom.ChurchofJesusChrist.org, and teaser text for three articles on Liahona.ChurchofJesusChrist.org that might entice people to read those articles.

5. What will I gain from a Church internship?

Interns gain experience in each phase of the publication process and can receive academic credit as approved by their university or college. In addition, these are paid internships. An internship could also open the door to future employment opportunities at the Church.

6. Can I go to school at the same time?

Because the internships are full-time positions (40 hours per week), either at the Church offices or remote, most interns take the semester off from classes. While you might choose to take a night course, we ask interns to be available for work Monday through Friday from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

7. What if I have questions?

If you have any additional questions, feel free to reach out to Mindy Selu at mindy.selu@ChurchofJesusChrist.org.

Internship

Application Tips

COVER LETTER

- First of all, include one!
- Make it short, engaging, and relevant to each internship you're applying for. This is your first opportunity to show us how clear, clean, and interesting your writing is. Avoid HR speak. And if you feel enthusiastic about a job, let it show!

RESUME

- Because design is so important, we're looking for excellent visual presentation. Consider organizing your accomplishments around specific things you can do.
- Show your university GPA only. Don't list high school accomplishments.
- Make sure both your resume and cover letter clearly show how your schoolwork experiences match up with the job description and requirements. Customize your resume to highlight any skills and interests specific to the job posting.
- Proofread everything before submitting.
- Make sure all your attachments go through.

INTERVIEW

- If you're interviewing via video chat, do it from a place with good lighting (like facing a window) and a reliable internet connection. Dress the same as you would for an in-person interview.

PORTFOLIO

- Don't send us your portfolio until we reach out to request it.
- If you're submitting a portfolio for a magazine internship, write several pieces of content that could be published in that magazine with very minimal editing. Make what you write fit seamlessly into this month's issue by using the appropriate department titles, format, tone and style, word count, reading level, etc.
- Submit all material on time—or even early, when possible.

IN GENERAL

- Be considerate and follow standard business etiquette in all of your interactions with the hiring committee. Be professional during both email and in-person communication.
- Spend some time exploring the different products associated with the internships—like the magazines, news, and app content. Get a feel for the style and what's been published. If you're applying to work at one of the magazines, know its recent history (such as what articles have run in the last 6 to 12 months) and its regular departments.
